In Finland, it will become possible to pay in Russian rubles in the stores. This is important for everyone in St. Petersburg because St. Petersburg residents frequently visit Finland, thus Finland has recently adopted this law in order to attract even more tourists from Russia. The idea was proposed by the store “Stockmann”, and was supported by several other companies in Finland. The new law starts to take effect in December, so you don’t need to exchange your rubles into Euros every time you go to Finland!